This guide assumes you've already created your ladder group and you're listed as an admin on it. If you're not seeing the admin views described below, double-check that your role on the group is Admin in `Groups → [your group] → Members`.

TWO FLAVORS OF SIGN-UP SHEETS

Most ladder groups want a sheet to drop on the same day & time every week — that's

AUTO-POSTED

, configured once via your group's Play Time. For one-off events (a clinic, a holiday session, a make-up day) you'll create a sheet

MANUALLY

. Both are covered here.

1. Set up a Play Time

A Play Time is your group's recurring play schedule — the day, time, and location where your group regularly plays. Once it's saved, members can see the schedule on the group page, and (with auto-posting on, see Section 2) the sheet will be created and announced for them automatically each week.

Where to find it

1. Sign in and tap `Groups` in the bottom nav (or sidebar on desktop).

2. Open your group from the list.

3. Tap `Group Settings` (visible to admins only).

4. Choose the `Schedule` tab and tap `Add Play Time`.

Fields to fill in

FIELD	WHAT TO ENTER
Label optional	A short tag like "Tuesday Night" — only shown to admins for distinguishing multiple Play Times.
Day of week	The day your group plays — e.g. Monday.
Event time	Local start time of play, in 30-minute increments.
Timezone	Defaults to Eastern. Pick the time zone where you actually play, not where you live, so daylight savings shifts handle themselves.
Location	The venue name (e.g. "Ingleside Pickleball Courts"). Members see this on the sheet.
Player limit	Max number of players — anyone past this number lands on the waitlist. Typical: 16 (4 courts), 20 (5 courts), 24 (6 courts).
Sign-up closes (hours before)	How long before play starts the sign-up form locks. Common: 2 hours.
Withdraw closes (hours before) optional	If you want a separate, earlier deadline for canceling, set it here. Leave blank to use the same time as sign-up close.
Allow members to add guests	Tick if your group lets members bring a non-member friend onto the sheet. Off by default.
Notes optional	Anything you want shown on every auto-posted sheet — parking, gate codes, dress code, etc.
Active	Leave on. Turning off pauses auto-posting without deleting the Play Time.

TIP — MULTIPLE PLAY TIMES

You can add as many Play Times as you need. A group that meets Monday and Thursday gets one Play Time per night, each with its own auto-post settings.

Save it

Tap Add Play Time. Your schedule is now visible on the group page under Plays on: (Monday, 5:30 PM ET, etc.) so members know when you're playing — even before the next sheet posts.

2. Turn on auto-posting

With auto-posting enabled, the system creates each week's sign-up sheet automatically — no admin action required. The sheet appears at exactly the day & time you specify, every week, with a push notification + email going out to all group members at the same moment.

How to enable it

While editing a Play Time (Section 1), scroll to Auto-post the sign-up sheet and tick the box. Two new fields appear:

FIELD	WHAT TO ENTER
Post day	Which day of the week the sheet should drop. Common: 1–2 days before the event so members aren't scrambling at the last minute.
Post time	What time on that day, 30-minute increments. Pick a time members will be near their phones — early evening (e.g. 7:00 PM) is popular.

Example schedule

Play Time — Mondays at 5:30 PM ET

Auto-post — Sundays at 7:00 PM ET

Members get a "Sign-up open" push every Sunday evening for Monday's session.

What happens at the moment of posting

1. The system creates a fresh signup sheet row for the next occurrence of your Play Time's day & time.
2. Every group member receives one notification:
 - An in-app notification in their bell icon.
 - A push notification (if they've enabled push and have the PWA installed) or an email if they haven't.
3. The sheet immediately becomes available at the locations described in Section 3.

IF YOU CHANGE A PLAY TIME MID-WEEK

Editing the day/time of an existing Play Time only affects future occurrences. The current week's sheet (already posted, or about to post) keeps the original schedule. If you need to fix this week's sheet, edit it directly — see Section 4 for the manual sheet flow.

Skipping a week

If you know you can't host one week (holiday, court closure), you have two options:

- Cancel the auto-posted sheet after it posts — open the sheet, tap Manage, and choose Cancel sheet. Members get a "session cancelled" notification automatically.
- Untick Active on the Play Time — pauses all auto-posts indefinitely until you re-enable. Use this for off-seasons.

3. Where members find the sheet

A sheet that's been posted (whether auto-posted or manually created) shows up in five places. The first three are the ones members reach for instinctively.

For members

1. The push / email notification

The "Sign-up open" alert that fires when the sheet posts is tappable — it lands them directly on the sheet ready to sign up.

2. The Sheets tab

Sheets in the bottom nav. Lists every active sheet across every group the member belongs to, sorted by event date. Each card shows the group name, event time, location, and a live count (e.g. "12 / 16 confirmed").

3. Their dashboard

Home tab. Upcoming events the member is registered for (or has been added to as a guest) appear at the top with their court assignment once posted.

4. The group page

Groups → [group name]. Under Upcoming Events, the next sheet for this specific group is listed — handy for someone scoping out which group plays when.

5. The sheet's direct URL

Each sheet has a permanent link (`/sheets/<id>`) you can share over text or DM. The recipient must be signed in and a member of the group to view it.

For admins

You see one extra entry point: Group Settings → Schedule shows every sheet ever posted by your group, including past and cancelled ones, so you can audit attendance over time.

TIP — PIN THE SHEETS TAB

The Sheets tab is the one-stop shop for members across every group they're in. Walk new members through opening it once during their onboarding so they know where to look every week.

4. Manually create a sign-up sheet

For events that don't fit your weekly schedule — a clinic, a make-up day, a holiday round, a tournament prep session — create a sheet by hand. It works just like an auto-posted sheet from the member's side; the only difference is you trigger the post manually and pick the date.

Where to find it

1. Tap Sheets in the bottom nav.
2. Tap Create Sign-Up Sheet at the top right.
3. Pick the group you're creating the sheet for (only groups you admin appear in the dropdown).

Fields to fill in

FIELD	WHAT TO ENTER
Group	The ladder group this one-off event belongs to. Members of that group will get the notification.
Event date	Calendar picker — the day of play.
Event time	Local start time of play.
Location	The venue. If you've used a venue before, the dropdown autocompletes — pick a saved one or type a new one.
Player limit	How many spots before the waitlist kicks in.
Sign-up closes (hours before)	How long before play the sign-up form locks. Default: 1 hour.
Withdraw closes (hours before) optional	Separate, earlier cutoff for cancellations. Leave blank to use the sign-up close time.
Allow members to add guests	Tick if non-members can sign up via a member.
Notes optional	Specifics of this one-off event — clinic topic, format change, parking caveat.
Notify on create	Tick to push to every group member the moment you save. Untick if you want to share the link selectively (e.g. invite-only clinic).

Save it

Tap Create Sheet. The sheet is live immediately at `/sheets/<id>` and visible everywhere listed in Section 3. If you ticked Notify on create, every group member gets a "Sign-up open" alert just like an auto-posted sheet.

EDITING A SHEET AFTER CREATION

Open the sheet and tap Manage (admin-only). You can change time, location, player limit, notes, or cancel the sheet entirely. Members who've already signed up get notified of the change automatically.

FAQs

I set up auto-posting yesterday but no sheet was created. Why?

The post day & time has to occur after you save the Play Time. If the next configured slot is several days away, the sheet won't post until then. Double-check the post day/time and verify Active is on. The cron that handles auto-posting runs every minute, so the sheet should appear within 60 seconds of the configured time.

Can I have two Play Times on the same day?

Yes — set them up as separate Play Times (e.g. Monday morning and Monday evening). Each gets its own sheet and its own auto-post schedule.

A member says they didn't get the "Sign-up open" notification.

The in-app notification always lands; the push/email may not. Check the member's notification preferences (their Profile → Notifications page). If they have neither push nor email enabled, they'll only see the bell-icon alert when they open the app.

Can I send a sheet only to certain members of the group?

Not directly. Auto-posted and "Notify on create" sheets fan out to every group member. For invite-only events, create the sheet with Notify on create unticked, then share the URL via DM/text to the people you want.

What happens to a cancelled sheet?

The sheet stays in the database (so attendance history isn't lost) but is marked cancelled. Members on the roster get a "session cancelled" alert. The sheet no longer appears on the Sheets tab but is still visible to admins under Group Settings → Schedule.
